client satisfaction is at the heart of everything we do

why we're different

Spencer Swinden begins every project with a thorough briefing to set objectives and deliverables.

We understand that in the hotel industry, repeat business is dependent upon a customer's experience and that the difference between a good venue and a great venue is in the details. We design to increase the profitability of venues through combining creative flair, financial acumen and commercial awareness.

We want our clients to benefit from our experience, which is why we guarantee directorial involvement in every project. We strive to work with the newest products, materials, sustainable solutions and systems to ensure our designs are both enterprising and forward thinking.

experience, understanding and expertise

what we offer

Our service provides a 'holistic' design approach covering many aspects including interior design, planning applications, project management, demographics, competition analysis, business identity, landscape design, signage, marketing and menu design. This allows us to create a synergy that endorses the venue's offer to the customer.

Our ethos focuses on really understanding the business objectives of our clients and the demographics of the location before ever developing a concept. This method of designing puts us at the forefront of our industry and our clients businesses ahead of the competition.
